

Food Chain cards

This is a brush rabbit. It eats plants like bunch grasses  Brush Rabbit	This is a stink beetle. It eats plants like the California buckwheat.  Stink Beetle	This is a copepod. It eats tiny sea plants such as diatoms.	This is the sun.
This is a caddis fly larvae. It eats tiny pond plants  Caddis fly larva	This is a red tailed hawk. It eats rodents, small mammals, bird and reptiles including the fence lizard.  Red-tailed Hawk	This is a bunch grass. It makes its own food through photosynthesis.  Native Perennial From Grasses	This is California buckwheat. It makes its own food through photosynthesis.  Buckwheat
This is the sun.	This is a coyote. It is a scavenger who will eat almost any dead land animal or bird.  Coyote	This is a tadpole. It eats small insects and larvae like the caddis fly larvae.  Tadpole	This is a heron. It eats fish, frogs, and other fresh water animals.  Heron
This is a salmon. It eats plankton like copepods.  Fish	These are tiny pond plants. They make their own food through photosynthesis.  Tiny pond plants	These are diatoms. They make their own food by photosynthesis.  Tiny sea plants	This is the sun.
This is a worm. It eats dead plants and animals.  Worm	This is the sun.	This is a bobcat. It eats birds and small mammals like the brush rabbit.  Bobcat	This is a mushroom. It gives off chemicals that digest dead plants and animal wastes. Then it soaks up the digested materials.
This is a fish. It eats tadpoles. 	This is a fence lizard. It eats insects like the stink beetle.  Fence Lizard	This is a harbor seal. It eats ocean fish such as salmon,	This is a crab. It eats dead things on the ocean floor.

Modified from Debbie Breeding's activity Food Chains and Webs (http://www.lalc.k12.ca.us/uclasp/urban_science/food_chains/breeding.htm). Illustrations by Paula McKenzie, from Mountains to the Sea- A Visitor's Guide to the Santa Monica Mountains and Seashore, and also by the British Ecological Society (<http://www.britishecologicalsociety.org/articles/education/resources/curriculum/foodchains/>), from the Food Chains and Webs activity by Sue Barker and Clare Norris